What if girls felt like they could do anything?

At Girl Scouts, girls have new experiences that give them that super-excited, jumping, giggling, butterflies-in-the-stomach feeling. Experiences that inspire them to look forward to what they're going to do today, tomorrow - and ten years from now - by helping them realize that they can be anything they want to be.

It all starts with one meeting, and a few volunteers who believe in the power of every girl. Each volunteer guides a group of girls through a series of activities designed to teach them about themselves and their world. For the girl in your life, a year with us will be filled with new friends, tons of fun, and more "wow" moments than she's ever imagined. The kind of moments she just can't wait to tell you about.

Some things Girl Scouts in Northern Kentucky have done:

- Turned ordinary household items into robots
- Convinced the mayor to install a swing for special needs children in the park
- Raised money to feed hungry kids in their own school
- Hiked the Appalachian trail

"The Secret Rescue" documents Lytle's ordeal

By Jackie Vaughn, Reporter

"The Secret Rescue: An Untold Story of American Nurses and Medics Behind Nazi Lines" is a new book written by Cate Lineberry and published by Little, Brown and Company that World War II and Pendleton County history enthusiasts will definitely find both informative and captivating.

It tells the compelling untold story of a group of stranded United States Army nurses and medics, one of whom was from this area, fighting to escape Nazi-occupied Europe during World War II.

A brief overview of the book reads: "When 26 Army nurses and medics - part of the 807th Medical Air Evacuation Transport Squadron - boarded a cargo plane for transport in November 1943, they never anticipated the crash landing in Nazi-occupied Albania that would lead to their months-long struggle for survival. A drama that captured the attention of the American public, the group and its flight crew dodged bullets and battled blinding winter storms as they climbed mountains and fought to survive, aided by courageous villagers who risked death at Nazi hands to help them."

A mesmerizing tale of the courage and heroism of ordinary people, "The Secret Rescue" tells not only a new story of struggle and endurance, but also one of the daring rescue attempts by clandestine American and British organizations amid the tumultuous landscape of the war."

"It's a story of survival and relentless determination at a time when the entire world was in chaos," said author Cate Lineberry, formerly a staff writer and Europe editor for National Geographic Magazine and web editor for Smithsonian Magazine. Her work has also appeared in the New York Times.

What makes this book even more interesting is the fact that Wilma Dale Lytle, a Peach Grove resident who attended Butler High School and Second Twelve Mile Baptist Church, was one of three nurses left behind after the initial rescue. They were stranded for an additional three months with only the partisan families for protection. More information about Lytle, including a fifty page manuscript that documents the rest of her story, is available through the Bracken County Historical Society. If interested, please call them at 606-735-3337 and leave a message. They are open on Thursdays and Fridays.

If you'd like to obtain a copy of "The Secret Rescue: An Untold Story of American Nurses and Medics Behind Nazi Lines," you can do so on the internet at Amazon, Barnes & Noble, Bookish, IndieBound, Books-A-Million, Chapters, One More Page Books, and Politics & Prose among others. Tori received a $1,000 scholarship to attend the UK biology program with the intent of becoming a doctor. Tori thanked the Rotarians for their support as she pursues a promising education future.

From left: Outgoing Falmouth Rotary President Darryl Ammerman receives a plaque from newly elected Falmouth Rotary President Janelle Gardner in recognition of an excellent year of service in Rotary. Darryl was instrumental in adapting the song "Let there be Peace on Earth" for the year, re-igniting the "White Christmas" tradition (formerly by the Woman's Club), designating the club as a 100% Paul Harris Fellow, hosting a luncheon for area veterans during the week of Memorial Day, revising by-laws, maintaining annual events (golf outing, spaghetti supper, etc.) and creating a new member brochure. All clubs sang "Let There be Peace on Earth" in recognition of his great year as Falmouth Rotary President.

Back Yonder

By Marvin Sullivan

“Success”

Success is defined as a person or situation which turns out well. It may also be an end result that was desired from the beginning. Public opinion and recognition is also an important factor in the formula.

Fame and success are often confused and many consider them to have the same meaning, but each is quite different. Someone may be successful but not famous. Someone else may be eyed as famous, but not successful.

Abe Lincoln, our 16th president, was both famous and successful. Many folks don't know that during Lincoln's younger days, he lost several elections and was not considered important until his later life. He, along with many other famous and successful people, do not reach the famous and successful category until after their death.

Howard Hughes was famous for making money, but was a failure as far as being a model for people to pattern as a success in life.

Success can be as private as two individuals being good parents and making a good home for their family. Some folks may confuse winning 10 million in the lottery as being a success.

Today's society gauges success with owning mansions, fancy vehicles, exotic travels, memberships in “ritzy” country clubs, associating with famous movie stars, and many other elaborate categories.

Other folks seek success to go as far as selecting stately cemetery sites to construct elaborate shrines for recognition after death.

Marilyn Monroe and Keith Whitley were famous for great talents and will be remembered for years, but as far as life is concerned or as far as being examples for our younger generation to follow, were not successful.

One of the best patterns to measure success comes from a few lines of an old poem I read titled “The Man in the Mirror:” “When you get what you want in the struggle for self and the world makes you king for a day, just go to the mirror and look at yourself, and see what that man has to say.”

Another that stands out for me is from a famous quote, “Keep a clear eye toward life's end. Do not forget your purpose and destiny as God's creature. What you are in His sight is what you are and nothing more. Remember when you leave this earth; you can take nothing that you have received - But only what you have given!”

The best example comes from the book of Mark in the Scripture in the account of the Widow's Offering. She was very poor, but even though her gift was small, she gave all. What a tremendous example for us to follow in our attempt to be famous.

Perhaps the best example for us everyday humans to follow in ending up successful is the following:

“SUCCESS”

* At age 4 success is ...not peeing in our pants.

* At age 12 success is ...having friends.

* At age 16 success is ...having a driver's license.

* At age 20 success is ...going all the way.

* At age 35 success is ...having money.

* At age 50 success is ...having money.

* At age 60 success is ...going all the way.

* At age 70 success is ...having a driver's license.

* At age 75 success is ...having friends.

* At age 80 success is ...not peeing in your pants.

What more could a person want? Those of us who have had family, professional or health problems know that the most valuable possession and the most successful are the very basic ones, even just a peaceful night's sleep.

"The less government interferes with private pursuits, the better for general prosperity."

The Supreme Court rules for same sex marriage

The Lexington Herald screamed the above in its headlines as though the American Civil War had ended and we were now going to live happily ever after. And, the Court is partially correct. The issue the Court ruled on was one of civil rights and not one of moral rightness. Most persons with whom I have talked think that same sex marriage is a deviant lifestyle at best and out of the pits of hell at worse, but they are quick to say, “Let them do what they will; they don't bother me.....none!”

Therefore, it is not that they agree with the lifestyle..... the propagation of the natural world is based on male and female; Adam and Eve, not Adam and Steve.... rather, they think that every American....red, black, white, brown, religious, irreligious, Christian, Muslim, atheist, agnostic.... should have equal protection under our civil laws. And, I agree; it is one of the greatest qualities of our nation. But there is an imminent danger with this position!

Put succinctly, what's next? For the appetite for liberty is whetted by victory and there will be further calls for the abolishment of moral law? What's next?

Before offering an answer, please allow two divergent views of the world, both existing in our nation today, although one is on life support. First, man is the highest form of animal on earth, having evolved over eons of time from a Big Bang. But we are close kin to apes, and as some have suggested we devolved from our tree swinging cousins. They point out that babies are sometimes born with tails and an ankle bone that appears to have been used at one time with a grasping function, like to hang onto a tree limb. There is no such being as God; He is a figment of our imagination. There is no such thing as a soul; when one dies, that's it! Curtains! Lights out! The party's over! There is no moral code in the universe, no such thing as ethics; whatever works is right!

Another view is that human beings were created by God and that our duty is to love Him and our fellow man, and that this is often done best thru a family with a male father and a female mother. Morals and ethics are an important part of our being and part of these codes is to take care of the earth which God has entrusted to us. Heaven is our reward for doing what is right and Hell can be shunned by following His Word. We have a promise of being reunited with our loved ones in Heaven. Man will not get better and better, but will become more evil until God cannot stand the evil and will destroy it.

Obviously, there are many shades of gray between these two polar opposites.

Now back to the question, what's next in our slide down this slippery slope to a moral abyss? Will it be Devil worship? Bestiality? Look for major movements in these two as the evil of men becomes stronger and stronger?

P.S. I just attended a Workshop on our Heroin Epidemic at Pendleton High School. I estimated over 200 concerned citizens, families, public officials, law enforcement personnel; school personnel, physicians and others presented informative and alarming information on this latest scourge facing our society, primarily our young persons. The Heroin Scourge is no respecter of persons; it attacks the educated and the uneducated; the wealthy and the poor; the bright and the dim. And the enormity of this problem was underscored by the number of drug offenders that are in jail; others said that jail is not the best answer for these offenders in many cases.

Jim Thaxton and Judge Bertram are to be commended for their leadership in bringing our attention to this growing problem and as Judge said, “It will take us all working together to lick this one!”

Two questions remain unanswered in my mind: What are the basic causes of this drug problem? Referring back to the Big Bang paragraph, I ask, Are persons of this persuasion more susceptible to drugs than those who see the world as the Creation of God? There were no recorded suicides among the Puritans. Most likely, we have moved too far to even consider basic causes.

Finally, if drugs has become such a consuming problem, why would our State Legislature want to legalize marijuana and our Governor indicate his willingness to allow it to become law? I am reminded of the movie, “One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest!”

BBB tips for buying door-to-door sales

Summertime brings out sales people who knock on your door offering alarm systems, magazines, and more. While some of these salespersons are legitimate, others are dishonest in their sales techniques.

For instance, local consumers are calling the BBB complaining about an out-of-state alarm company showing up at their homes selling items, using high-pressure sales tactics. Some examples of high pressure sales tactics include hostile and persuasive rebuttals to consumer concerns, deep discounts offered upon immediate payment, and refusal to take “no” for an answer.

Other homeowners may get a knock on their door from someone using an emotional appeal to sell magazines. Some act like college students who are trying to raise money to apply for a scholarship, and others pretend to sell magazines to send overseas to the military.

BBB offers these tips for consumers to consider when someone knocks on the door:

- Be safe. Ask for identification before you open the door. Never invite the solicitor into your home.
- High-pressure sales tactics. Be wary of high-pressure sales tactics. A trustworthy company should let you take time to think about the purchase and compare prices before buying or putting down a deposit. Some unscrupulous door-to-door sellers will put pressure on you to close the deal at that moment, and even make special offers to entice you. If you find yourself in this position, find a way to end the conversation quickly.

- Time sensitive offer. Don't be pressured to take advantage of a time-sensitive offer. Take time to decide whether you're sure you want the product. Do some comparison shopping first.

- Research the company with BBB. Visit www.bbb.org to view the company's BBB Business Review to find out more about their marketplace performance. You can download and use the BBB iPhone app to access the company's report while the person is standing at your door, or visit m.bbb.org on your mobile device.

- Get transaction details in writing. Be sure you receive a contract or receipt explaining the details of your purchase and all of the terms and conditions that apply.

Local students perform service across state; thank local businesses for their support

Dear Editor,
Y-Corps Service to the commonwealth consisted of 28 high school students from all over the state. We traveled around Kentucky for eight days while taking part in service projects and learning more about our commonwealth.

We started off in Louisville with Youth Build and from there we traveled to Owensboro to help the International Bluegrass Museum. We stopped at Bowling Green and helped Community Action, and then stopped at the Corvette Museum and a water park. We took a tour at Mammoth Cave then surprised a volunteer with house supplies after a fire destroyed her house. My favorite day was when we assisted the Christ Outreach for the Blind in Rockcastle, the same day we drove to the Kentucky Horse Park and helped clean up the buckets and stalls for the horses. That night we stopped and had some fun at the Anderson County Fair! Our final full day was spent at Kentucky YMCA in Frankfort working on building a shed, organizing, and painting. That night we worked at Central Park in Louisville with Shakespeare in the Park.

This trip was a blessing and I want to thank Woodhead Funeral Home, Xanadu Salon, Houchens, and Peoples Funeral Home for donating money towards the trip and I want to thank everyone who helped me fund-raise. I also want to thank Senior Council for letting me get almost all my volunteer hours in with them!

Thank you,
Mackenzie Moore

BUTLER BAPTIST

I Peter 1:13-16 tells us that during the trials of life we must dedicate our minds and lives to Jesus. We need to focus on God's grace. Jesus took our guilt and punishment on the cross. We need to gather our thoughts and focus on our salvation and the grace of God. To do this we need to focus on being obedient to God. We need to make God a priority in our lives and not do things that are questionable. Lastly we need to focus on holiness. Our lives should be lived so that others see Jesus daily in our lives. God helps us and tells us what we need to do. Where are you in your relationship with God? Join us as we continue to study how God's word guides our life.

CEMETERY CHAPEL

Cemetery Chapel Christian Church will be having VBS from 6-8 p.m. on July 26 and 27. This year's theme is "God's Super Hero Squad." There will be a lesson, games, crafts and refreshments. If your child needs transportation, call the church at 747-5707 and leave a message. Hope to see you there!

If you are looking for a church home we would love to have you as part of our church family. Sunday school begins at 9 a.m. and church service is at 10 a.m.

FALMOUTH BAPTIST

"For faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see." Hebrews 11:1

Bro. Cohen's message was about how faith in our lives helps us endure and overcome. We were reminded that faith helps dissolve doubt in our lives. Our faith should be optimistic! Faith also strengthens our witness, whereas doubt weakens our witness. It is impossible to please God without faith. Remember that faith is never defeated, but we sometimes must wait on God's timing.

The youth spent the day at the home of Jason and Natalie Muench and had a great time. Thanks to Jason and Natalie for hosting.

The Acteens are collecting small notebooks, activity books and pen/pencil sets. These will be added to Operation Christmas Child boxes.

Don't forget to bring new shoes for children pre-school through fifth grade by July 28. These will be donated to the Southern Resource Center.

FALMOUTH CHRISTIAN

Brother Rick's message was from I Corinthians 13:1-13. Please read the scripture. "The Way of Love" God's holy word: God is talking to you. What is the difference between something and nothing? What is love? Forever love unites church, family, soul. God is love: Spiritual growth is to love ourselves, others and God. Do you love God? Love is not to keep "wrong" records, love never fails. Place your name in the scripture instead of the word "love." Charity and love in the Bible mean the same. God does not keep "wrong" records. Now insert the name "Jesus" instead of the word love. Babies grow they make their own decisions. We are held accountable when we know right from wrong. God gives us opportunity for salvation. Hope will not be in heaven. We will remain forever. We are not guaranteed "tomorrow."

Pray often for those in need. Prayer is a powerful tool. Use it wisely.

Youth meet at 6 p.m., every Thursday.

"Old fashioned" church picnic following worship, Sunday, July 28 and prayer group meets at 7 p.m., Monday, July 29, in the church library.

Keep love in your heart!

FALMOUTH METHODIST

Helen was always worn out before the day began. She felt like she had to yell to be understood. "Johnny, get out of bed!" "Paula, quit teasing your little brother!" "Chad, don't forget your lunch!" When she woke up with laryngitis one day, she didn't think she could cope. How could she possibly get the kids up, dressed, fed and out the door without a voice? She began whispering. And when the kids realized that she couldn't talk, they began whispering too! Nobody argued. Nobody forgot their lunch. Nobody was late.

It was amazing; she couldn't believe it, there was peace in the house. Because she didn't raise her voice, the kids didn't raise theirs.

People respond not just to the things you say, but the way you say them. The next time you've got a point to make, use reason, not a loud voice, to get it across.

HARVEST

Bro. Dale's morning message was based on the scripture text from I Thessalonians 5:14, "Four Ways You Can Serve Jesus." The key to ministry is sensitivity: sensing the condition of each person and offering the appropriate remedy for each situation. We are called to have spiritual resources that can be durable, fruitful and nourishing when others are unruly, fainthearted, weak and

"You know that He appeared in order to take away sins."

~ I John 3:5

mean-spirited.

August 4, morning service will be held at the Creekside Pavilion, 9:30 a.m. Bible study and 10:30 worship service. That evening we will meet at Kincaid State Park from 7 to 9 p.m. for a church wide pool party.

Prayer concerns: Leathan Kinman, Monte McElfresh, Snip Owens, Johnny LaFollette, Linda Daugherty, Jay Perkins, the Doss family and the family of Carolyn Lea Hensley.

We invite you to worship with us at 111 E. Shelby Street and share the love of Jesus in a practical way.

Blessings for a wonderful week!

MT. MORIAH

Last Sunday Bro. Breeden assigned the congregation to study the book of Haggai, a book that has only two chapters. He then based his sermon on Haggai. The book makes us aware of the work God expects of us.

The church has purchased a van. It will be very helpful when different organizations of the church need to make trips and visits.

We enjoyed a solo by Julie Utz. Julie always does a lovely job.

We welcomed several visitors. It is so nice to have guests. Guests are always welcome.

The Ladies aid will be meeting at Howard's restaurant during our church renovation.

Congratulations to Andy and Carol Caldwell on their wedding anniversary. Congratulations also to David Fields and Darci Ruber on their upcoming marriage. They were baptized in the river by Bro. Breeden and have become members of Mt. Moriah. We welcome them in the name of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Have a good week and stay cool!

This is what the Lord almighty says, "Give careful thoughts to your ways." Haggai 1:7

Ministry in a Culture of Disengagement

My daughter Kate and I met my friend Angela Cowser in Nashville the other day. We went to a Chinese buffet and then, to extend our visit, walked for an hour around an outdoor track. Neither Kate nor I wore shoes ideal for walking on a cinder-covered surface, but the fellowship was too important for us to care about foot-discomfort.

Perhaps ironically, at Angela's initiative the topic that had launched the evening's discussion was the decline of meaningful conversation. By "meaningful conversation" Angela meant dialogue characterized by mutual attentiveness, openness, and respect. She meant interchanges that move participants incrementally toward a deepened understanding of themselves, one another, and the world. We discussed reasons why people don't talk as much as they used to, and noted that when conversations do occur they often are superficial and distracted.

This problem is satirized in a series of hilarious sketches on the "Weekend Update" portion of Saturday Night Live, in which Seth Meyers interviews "The Girl You Wish You Hadn't Started a Conversation with at a Party." Played by Cecily Strong, this young woman presents a veneer of knowledge about world events and claims to be thinking about important subjects, like Syria, or orphaned children (see video here). But as the conversation moves along she looks at her phone, pulls items from her purse, greets friends in the audience, jumps randomly from one snippet of current events to the next, and fends off Seth's responses through sarcasm.

The SNL character is extreme, but which of us has escaped the social forces that curtail attention spans, discourage depth, and compromise capacity to be present to a given person or moment? It seems that the problem has grown much worse in the last decade, and so one reasonably infers that technology has exacerbated the effect of these social forces. I am not Facebook bashing: technology is not inherently the problem, but who can deny that it has given us new and omnipresent ways to indulge our tendency to disengage? Walk into a restaurant and notice how many people, even couples, are texting or checking updates on their smart phones while (or instead of) conversing.

There are other patterns of social disengagement besides mental absence from conversation, however, and even those who never touch a smart phone may fall into them. At work, church, or school, disengagement may manifest as doing the bare minimum, focusing on what's in it for me rather than on shared vision and mission, and blaming and complaining at toxic levels. In the civic realm, disengagement manifests as failing to participate in the political process by voting, and caricaturing, judging, or actively sabotaging those with whom one disagrees rather than trying to understand their point of view and work for the common good. In personal lives, patterns include being apathetic, numbing oneself through all manner of addiction, living with low expectations, and being non-committal in relationships.

Brene Brown, a social analyst, says that such patterns of behavior are driven by our fear of being vulnerable to critique and shame. She claims that disengagement is an armoring of the self done for protection.

If Brown is even partially correct, then surely the need for the Gospel of freedom from bondage is as acute and widespread as it has ever been. But how can we possibly minister in a world characterized by such disengagement? If people's attention and interest are so compromised, how can we draw them into conversation about God's will for human lives? If all are focused on protecting their interests and meeting their own needs, how can we share the message that it is in but could not reach Jesus. So they went to the roof and lowered the man down. Seeing their faith Jesus said, my friend your sins are forgiven. Jesus proved it by healing the man. Immediately the man jumped to his feet, picked up his mat and went home praising God! Who but God can forgive sins?

Sunday evening Bible Study is in Genesis.

TRINITY

Greetings from the corner of Shelby and Broad streets in Falmouth.

The puppets took the stage and explained how to make God happy, happy, happy. Sunday school and church attendance make God smile.

A special "thank you" goes out to Bro. Ron for the wonderful things he is doing with our music program. Also, his special music, "He Came To Me" held a powerful message.

Welcoming back in the pulpit was Bro. Hefner. His message came from Psalms 122:1-9, "The Joys of Jerusalem." Witness, go tell, go invite and go bring others. Christians need to come together, worship and fellowship. Remember Jesus accepts us as we are, but loved us enough to change us into what He needs.

Don't forget the huge rummage sale from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., July 26 and 27. Tons of stuff and someone is bound to find a treasure. All proceeds benefit the Master's Provision Program which is the provider for our food share ministry.

TURNER RIDGE

Many churches today struggle to get their Youth involved - we are blessed to not only have Youth attending, but active in The Great Commission, "Go ye therefore, and teach..." Matthew 28:19.

Sunday, July 14 our young adults led the service and shared their experiences from their recent mission trip to Charleston, Missouri.

This trip was planned, prayed about and the Lord allowed great things to happen. The Youth led mini-sports camps featuring basketball, cheerleading, soccer and volleyball and had Bible study with each group. Meals were shared along with an evening worship service. During their time there, 12 accepted the Lord and made a profession of faith. Now, we all need to get busy and pray! Pray for the decisions that were made and those still struggling to find their way. And lift in prayer the young people at Turner Ridge, that they stay active serving the Lord.

Our Youth group meets at 5:30 p.m., each Sunday evening, and right now the middle school and high school age are meeting together at 7 p.m. on Wednesday nights for a Bible study (Follow Me).

serving God and God's people through Christ that we find our heart's desire? Finally, how can we guard ourselves against this tendency we lament in others-this proclivity to fear rejection, resign ourselves to failure, and withdraw?

I have no quick fixes for these quandaries. Here I want only to share one idea borrowed from a recent book on pedagogy. In Gratitude in Education: A Radical View, education expert Kerry Howells explores how, by consciously practicing gratitude, teachers can instigate a cycle of giving and receiving that counters disengagement. For Howells, practicing gratitude is not the same as counting blessings (an act that can be self-focused). Gratitude practices have as their outcome an effect on the quality of one's personal presence and on social exchange. Such practices include not only saying thank you, but also focusing our minds on people's strengths and contributions rather than on what annoys us about them, consciously opening ourselves to change as a result of valid critiques we receive, approaching a meeting with an attitude of thanks for whatever will transpire, and many others. Adopting one or two such practices consistently can make a difference, Howells contends (one of her chapters has the title "Little Practice, Big Effects"). She insists that gratitude is not simply a technique, however: it is a different way of being. Gratitude first alters the teacher, and changes flow out from there.

How might our embodiment and proclamation of the Gospel be transformed if we strived to practice gratitude both in season and out? Could this be one small but significant way to resist the forces that bind us and prevent our deep engagement with God and one another?

"Do not worry about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." (Phil 4:6-7)

Respiratory protection in agriculture

It is important for farmers to use respiratory protection to safeguard their lungs against dusts in the coming weeks and months as they harvest crops, clean out grain bins, open silos, and strip tobacco among other seasonal farming activities.

A disposable toxic dust respirator will filter out fine dust particles that can deeply penetrate the lungs. It is needed for protection from potentially harmful dusts in confinement hog or poultry housing, grain dust and mold from grain, hay or silage. Agricultural workers should use a toxic dust respirator anytime they will be exposed to dusty operations or activities.

Using an approved toxic dust respirator can prevent the respiratory symptoms commonly associated with working in confinement facilities or onset of the flu-like illness that occurs four to six hours after exposure to big amounts of moldy materials.

An N95 is the most common respirator for agricultural uses. The N indicates that it is intended for oil-free dust and that the filter is 95 percent efficient in removing irrespirable or fine dust that can penetrate deep into the lungs. An N100 type that is 99.9 percent efficient also is available. Disposable toxic dust respirators are made of a heavier filter material and have two straps. The box or container will have a National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, or NIOSH, approval label. Most have an adjustable nose band to provide a good fit. They may be available in different sizes to accommodate most facial sizes and shapes. Respirators also may have exhalation valves to improve user comfort. You usually can buy a box of 10 to 20 of these respirators for only a few dollars a piece.

A cartridge-type, half mask respirator is most often used for pesticides or chemical exposures. These respirators have both a chemical cartridge to protect you from vapors and designated gases and a N95 or N100 mechanical filter for dust protection. They are available either as disposable respirators or reusable with replaceable cartridges.

A P95 or P100 dust filter is required for oil-based pesticides. The P indicates that the filter is oil proof or resistant to oils for more than eight hours of exposure.

Disposable dust masks and cartridge respirators are considered air purifiers and will not protect you against a potentially life-threatening environment such as toxic gases or reduced oxygen levels. Entry into this type of situation requires a respirator that will supply fresh air.

A self-contained breathing apparatus, like a firefighter would wear, is used in potentially life threatening environments such as entering manure pits, air-tight silos or other enclosed or confined areas with low oxygen levels or other potentially dangerous gases or fumes.

For everyone's protection, know the types of potentially harmful dusts and other hazards in the workplace; have appropriate respiratory protection available; and be sure it is the right size and shape to properly fit and provide adequate protection.

Using disposable nontoxic, or nuisance, dust masks is a good way to protect you from allergies while working in the yard or garden. These masks are ineffective for most agricultural uses. They only are effective for nuisance-type dusts that do not pose a serious health hazard such as pollens or other irritating dusts that may cause upper respiratory reactions such as sneezing or a stuffy nose. These masks are made of lightweight filter material and easily identified by a small single strap. They are relatively inexpensive; a box of 50 may only cost around $10.

Using social media wisely

Social media are very much a part of our culture, and many young people and adults regularly use the sites to connect with their friends and family. When used appropriately, social media can be very positive. When misused, there can be serious consequences for a family. Instances of cyberbullying and sexting have increased with the popularity of social media. In some cases, thieves have used social media accounts to find their next victims.

Some social media sites have member guidelines, such as Twitter and Facebook that require account holders to be at least 13 years old. However, some young people falsify their ages to gain entry into a site.

Here are some tips to help you and your children safely navigate social media sites.

- Make sure you and your child use your real names and ages when activating social media accounts.

- Personal information such as social security numbers, home addresses, phone numbers and when you're on vacation or not home, should not be posted on social media sites as it could make your family a prime target for thieves.

- Make sure your child personally knows each person listed as their friends or followers. Your friends and followers should also be limited to people you know.

- Utilize social media privacy settings, but realize that not everything you say on social media is private.

- Check your child's and your friends' accounts to make sure no one has posted any private or inappropriate information about you or your family. Ask your friends to remove any information involving you or your family that you feel is inappropriate or private. Remove tags from any inappropriate photos your friends may post of you and your family.

- Remind your child that what they say and do online can have real-life consequences.

- Encourage your kids to talk to you if someone's online behavior makes them feel uneasy or threatened.

Reduce grocery costs

You have probably heard that the cost of food is expected to rise next year. You can do several things to reduce your current grocery expenses and hopefully prepare yourself for the expected price increase.

One of the easiest things to do is to plan ahead. That includes making a meal plan for the week and making a shopping list based on the ingredients you need to fulfill your plan. Check weekly store sale ads and product coupons in the newspaper and online to find the best prices for the items you need. However, don't buy something you don't have plans for just because it's on sale. Make sure sale items ring up with the correct price at checkout.

Avoid shopping hungry, in a hurry or with your kids, as all can increase impulse spending.

Wisely choose your shopping destination. For many rural consumers, convenience stores are the most accessible places to shop; however, they typically are one of the most expensive. You might find it is more cost-effective to go to a larger store in a nearby community once month to stock-up on commonly used non-perishable items.

Instead of increasing prices, some companies are reducing their packaging sizes. This can increase your spending, as you will need to replace these items more often. When at the grocery store, check the item's price per unit found on the shelf tag. The price per unit allows you to easily compare the costs of the product based on size. The price may be cheaper in a different size or brand. If your grocery store does not display a product's price per unit, you can easily calculate it by taking the cost of the product and dividing it by its packaging size. Bringing a small calculator may be helpful.

Review your grocery purchases at least monthly to determine total monthly grocery expenses and individual product prices. You may be able to further reduce spending by eliminating things that aren't necessities. Cheaper alternatives may be available for some of the more costly items.

For more information on lowering your grocery bill, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Comer hails historical hemp vote: More to do to restore hemp production to Kentucky

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer today cheered House passage of legislation to allow university research on industrial hemp. The measure was an amendment to the farm bill that passed in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"Without a doubt, this was an historic day for industrial hemp in America," Comer said. "There's a long way to go in the legislative process. And I won't be satisfied until Kentucky farmers can legally grow industrial hemp again. But I am pleased that we have made it this far."

"We're excited that the hemp amendment was included in the farm bill that was passed today," said Eric Steenstra, president of Vote Hemp. "This moves us one step closer to our goal."

The amendment would allow colleges and universities to grow hemp for research purposes in states where hemp production is allowed by state law.

U.S. Rep. Thomas Massie of Vanceburg was one of three co-sponsors of the amendment and has filed a bill that would remove hemp from the federal definition of marijuana. Massie joined Comer, Rep. John Yarmuth, and Sen. Rand Paul to testify before the state Senate Agriculture Committee in support of a bill sponsored by state Sen. Paul Hornback to create an administrative framework for industrial hemp production in Kentucky. State Sen. Robin Webb also spoke out in favor of the bill, and state House Majority Floor Leader Rocky Adkins mounted a last-ditch effort that led to passage of the bill.

U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell and Reps. Andy Barr, Brett

Guthrie, and Ed Whitfield also have publicly supported restoring legal hemp production to Kentucky.

"It wasn't that long ago that people told us we wouldn't even get a sponsor for the bill in the state Senate," Comer said. "Now we have a state law for regulating hemp production, and one house of Congress has passed legislation to allow colleges and universities to grow hemp. This has been an amazing journey. And we're not finished."

Four dishes by The Amish Cook

The Amish Cook

By: Lovina Eicher

Editor's Note: Lovina's column is on summer break this week. I'd like to wish her and her husband Joe a very happy, blessed anniversary on July 15. I hope they have many more years of good health and happiness together. Meanwhile, it is the season of peaches and zucchini two summer staples! Here are some favorites from the Amish Cook archives.

Kevin Williams, Editor

ZUCCHINI PATTIES

INGREDIENTS:

- 3 cups. peeled and shredded zucchini
- 3 eggs
- Salt to taste

DIRECTIONS:

Just before you're ready to start frying, mix the above three ingredients. Drop by tablespoon onto preheated buttered frying pan. Mash and shape into patties and fry until golden brown on each side. Top with a slice of cheese and serve. We like to eat these just like this or also on a sandwich with lettuce, tomato and onions.

ZUCCHINI PINEAPPLE BREAD

INGREDIENTS:

- 4 eggs
- 2 c. sugar
- 1 T. cinnamon
- 2 t. baking powder
- 1 t. salt
- 1/4 t. baking soda
- 2 t. vanilla
- 1 1/4 c. oil
- 3 c. fresh grated zucchini (I peel mine first)
- 3 c. flour
- 1 c. chopped nuts (pecans)
- 1 small can crushed pineapple in its own juice

DIRECTIONS:

Mix dry ingredients except sugar together and set aside. Beat eggs until light, then gradually add sugar. Add oil, vanilla and pineapple, then dry ingredients. Fold in zucchini and nuts. Bake in loaf pans at 350° for one hour depending on loaf pan size.

CREAMY PEACH PIE

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 c. sugar
- 1/2 c. flour
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1/2 t. cinnamon
- 2 c. half and half

- 6-8 c. fresh, sliced peaches or 1 (29-oz. can) sliced peaches, drained
- 1 9x12-1/2-inch pie shell

DIRECTIONS:

Combine sugar, flour, salt and cinnamon. Blend. Add to peaches and toss to coat. Add half and half and mix. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 45 minutes at 350° or until it sets. Cool completely. Apples can also be substituted for peaches.

HOMEMADE PEACH COBBLER

INGREDIENTS:

- 1/2 c. butter or margarine
- 2 c. sugar
- 1 T. baking powder
- 1 1/2 c. milk
- 2 c. flour

DIRECTIONS:

Melt butter in a 9-by-12-inch pan. Mix together sugar, baking powder, milk and flour. Pour mixture into pan and then put on peeled, sliced peaches. Bake at 325° until golden brown. If desired, serve with ice cream or milk.
